LONG SEARCH FAILS TO DISCOVER TRACE OF AIRPLANE CRASH

Passenger Liner With Eight Aboard Remains Unreported Since Saturday Morning After Leaving Burbank in California for New York

WINSLOW, Ariz., April 5 (P).—A big tri-motored searching plane, piloted by a veteran airman, landed here tonight after a four-hour search by air failed to discover a trace of a twenty-one-passenger Douglas air liner missing with eight persons.

Major A. D. Smith, district operations superintendent for Transcontinental and Western Air, swung his ship in wide circles this afternoon over an isolated region on the Arizona-New Mexico border, where a strange plane was reported apparently in trouble last Saturday.

SKIMMED TREE TOPS
Although the searching plane barely skimmed the tree tops of rugged Escudilla Mountain, those aboard the ship were unable to sight any trace of the huge transport, which has been unreported since it took off on Saturday morning from Burbank, Calif., en route to New York, where it was to have been dismantled and shipped to Holland.

Major Smith, veteran of many aerial searches in the Southwest, expressed doubt that the missing plane could have crashed in the area over which the rescue ship flew.

Pilot Glen Moser, thirty, and Co-pilot Joe Wolford, thirty-two, were Continued on Page 2, Column 6

ALTERED BILL GOES TO HOUSE

Work Completed on Amendments to Combines Investigation Act

OTTAWA, April 5 (P).—After long and at times highly technical argument leading to numerous amendments, the bill designed to restore administration of combines investigation to the Department of Labor, and to provide for appointment of a commissioner with wide powers, passed the committee stage today in the House of Commons.

Labor Minister Norman Rogers accepted many amendments suggested by Hon. C. H. Cahan (Cons., St. Lawrence-St. George), Opposition Leader R. B. Bennett and Hon. H. H. Stevens (Recon., Kootenay East), while many changes were made at the instance of the minister himself.

PROPOSAL TURNED DOWN
Mr. Cahan was unable, however, to convince the Government that proceedings by the commissioner, after a preliminary inquiry had disclosed evidence indicating to his satisfaction that a combine existed, should be taken only with consent of the minister.

PUBLIC INQUIRIES
At the suggestion of Mr. Cahan and Mr. Stevens, supported by at least one member from each party in the House, the bill was altered to provide that all major inquiries be public unless the commissioner ruled otherwise, while preliminary hearings would be private. The bill proposed that all inquiries would be private unless the commissioner ruled they should be public.

Boy Uninjured In Fall From Moving Train

NELSON, B.C., April 5 (P).—Eleven-year-old Archibald McTeer, of Trail, fell from the rear platform of a moving passenger train yesterday—and tonight he had only a scratch on his nose to show for it.

The boy, returning with his mother, Mrs. Gordon McTeer, from the Prairies, became train sick and retired to the rear platform of the last coach. Apparently he fell off while in a fit of dizziness.

The boy was found four miles from town, trudging along the track. He was uninjured except for the scratch on his nose.

OBJECTS TO POLICE WORK

Leader of C.C.F. Party Finds Secret Agents' Efforts Hindrance

OTTAWA, April 5 (P).—Secret agents of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police should not be permitted to interfere with labor and political organizations, J. S. Woodworth, C.C.F. leader, declared in the House of Commons tonight.

Joining with M. J. Coldwell (C.C.F., Rosetown-Biggar), Mr. Woodworth protested against police activity of the type carried on by Sergeant John Leopold, staff sergeant in the force, whose evidence figured in the trial and conviction of Tim Buck and other Communist leaders some years ago.

EXPLAINS INSTRUCTIONS
Hon. Ernest Lapointe, Minister of Justice, said the secret agents had instructions to stay away from legitimate trade unions and Mr. Woodworth declared if this was the case the regulations had been changed.

In raising the question Mr. Coldwell said there were many splendid men in the Mounted Police Force. He knew of Sergeant Leopold's activities at first hand, having been associated with that officer when the latter was posing as a Communist.

PRINCE LEAVES FOR NEW YORK

Royal Japanese Couple End Three-Day Official Visit To Ottawa

OTTAWA, April 5 (P).—In a drizzle of rain thickened by heavy mists, Prince and Princess Chichibu of Japan today ended their three-day visit to Ottawa. Their Imperial Highnesses are on their way to the Coronation and sail from New York Wednesday.

BROTHER OF THE EMPEROR OF JAPAN, Prince Chichibu and his wife spent a busy week-end. A period of social activity was climaxed with a luncheon given in their honor at the County Club today by Prime Minister Mackenzie King. Earlier the royal couple visited the Parliament Buildings and the Archives.

HONORS FOR ROYALTY
As on their arrival, honors reserved for royalty were paid to the Prince and Princess on their departure. The Union Station was gaily beflagged. A red carpet extended from the main entrance down the stairs and across the concourse to where the train waited.

Lining this route was a company of the Cameron Highlanders of Ottawa, in full dress, while within the station a guard of honor from the Governor-General's Footguards was drawn up.

Inside the concourse were assembled the Prime Minister and several Cabinet ministers. Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett was present together with members of the foreign diplomatic corps and representatives of civic officialdom.

Coronation Service at Abbey Is Shortened by One Hour

LONDON, April 5 (P).—Changes shortening the Coronation service by a full hour were announced today. The Westminster Abbey ceremony will take two hours, as compared with three at the Coronation of King George V in 1911. No sermon will be delivered and the King will take the oath immediately after his "recognition" by the people and before the Communion service begins, instead of during the Communion as in 1911.

The act of homage will be made by the peers together, instead of individually. The Litany and Te Deum will be omitted from the service proper, but before the arrival of the King and Queen the Litany will be sung by the clergy and choir in procession.

NELSON, April 5 (P).—Inspector John MacDonald, of the British Columbia Police, said tonight a number of Doukhobor settlers in the West-Kootenay district had "admitted that there were some among them who knew who was responsible" for a wave of incendiarism that destroyed or extensively damaged ten buildings near here early on Sunday.

STORMS BRING DEATH TO NINE

Rage Over Wide Area of Southern States—Alabama Suffers Most

CHICAGO, April 5 (P).—High winds, accompanied by thunderstorms and dousing downpours, spread death and damage in the South today while rain soaked the eastern half of the nation.

At least nine fatalities and forty injured were reported in the wake of storms that extended from Texas to Florida on the first anniversary of tornadoes that resulted in more than 450 deaths and $20,000,000 in losses in the deep South.

The storms brought greatest destruction in Alabama. A negro girl was killed in a wind-wrecked house in Phenix City and two negroes died in Pike County. More than twenty-four persons were injured in that state. Observers estimated that more than twenty houses were toppled or damaged in Montgomery County. Six occupants of two boats capsized during the Sunday gale, drowned in Madina Lake near San Antonio, Texas.

CONSTITUTIONAL REFORM ISSUE REVIVED BY LONDON RULINGS

Hon. C. H. Cahan Tells Commons Members of Privy Council Invaded Political Field in Writing Recent Judgments on Bennett Reform Laws—Says Autonomy Disregarded

Plea for Amendments Heard From Both Sides of House

OTTAWA, April 5 (P).—Members of the Privy Council stepped outside the law and invaded the political field when they wrote the recent judgments invalidating the Bennett reform laws, it was charged in the House of Commons tonight by Hon. C. H. Cahan (Cons., St. Lawrence-St. George).

The former Secretary of State charged the Privy Council decisions disregarded the constitution of Canada when they wrote to a colonial status by referring to a non-existent imperial executive with powers to obligate Canada in foreign policies.

Joseph Thorsen (Liberal, Selkirk) agreed the Privy Council decisions mutilated the constitution and ended a national status for Canada. He urged abolition of appeals to the Privy Council because it had proved itself to be a court not of law but of political expediency.

URGES AMENDMENTS
Conservative Leader R. B. Bennett could not agree to abolition of appeals but urged amendments to the British North America Act to insure national laws of a social character. He suggested a constitutional convention of the Dominion and the provinces with all political parties represented to draft amendments which could be approved by Parliament and the legislatures before being enacted.

He said a few changes in Section 91, which sets out Dominion legislative powers, was all that was necessary, but he believed they were imperative in view of the London decisions.

Justice Minister Ernest Lapointe said the decisions merely re-echoed the conclusions of the Supreme Court of Canada and confirmed opinions passed in Parliament when the laws first were introduced.

NATIONAL CONVENTION
He agreed constitutional changes were necessary and said he could not understand opposition to them. Continued on Page 2, Column 1

MAN KILLED BY POLICE BULLET

Burglar Suspect Shot After Hand-to-Hand Struggle With Patrolman

VANCOUVER, April 5 (P).—A hand-to-hand struggle between a Vancouver police constable and an "aged burglar" in a downtown store today ended when a bullet from the policeman's gun dropped the suspect fatally wounded. He died before reaching hospital. An inquest will be held later this week.

The dead man was later identified as Fred Himmelman, twenty. Receiving a radio alarm that had been telephoned to police headquarters by a resident who heard glass breaking in a downtown chain store branch, Constables Peter Cooper and Lyle Roblin rushed to the scene in a police radio patrol car.

IS STRUCK OVER HEAD
Constable Roblin ran toward the back, but, noticing a side door opening, rushed in. He was struck over the head with a piece of pipe in the hands of the burglar, but managed to grapple with the man. The suspect broke free and ran toward the door. Roblin, after ordering the man to stop, pulled his gun and fired.

A deep gash in Roblin's head required three stitches.

FIRE THREATENS HISTORIC CHURCH

Montreal Chemical Factory and Glass Plant Destroyed Before Flames Are Extinguished

MONTREAL, April 5 (P).—Fire took a $250,000 bite out of Montreal's downtown factory and warehouse district early today. Firemen controlled it after hours of battle. Working in the choking fumes of a burning chemical plant, the firemen saved historic Notre Dame Church, valued with its precious art and religious contents at $10,000,000; the $1,000,000 chapel attached to the 110-year-old church, and a 220-year-old seminary holding some of the city's most prized records.

Two buildings were razed as the flames raged more than six hours. The Merck Chemical Company's factory, where the fire started, and the adjoining plant of Consolidated Glass Company were believed total losses. Several adjoining structures were badly damaged.

SAVED WAY TO FREEDOM
Two Escaped Convicts From Oakalla Jail Remain At Large

BURNABY, B.C., April 5 (P).—British Columbia Police pushed their search for two escaped Oakalla Jail prisoners into the Fraser Valley tonight, after a telephone message that a man resembling one of the pair had been seen in that district.

While officers sped towards the Upper Valley to investigate the telephone "tip," Provincial Police, with the aid of municipal authorities, threw a spreading net around the Lower Mainland district as they sought to track down Gordon Fawcett and Vernon Campbell, who saved their way to freedom last night.

ESCAPE IN CAR
The pair escaped in a waiting automobile near the south fence of the prison farm. Fawcett was awaiting trial while Campbell was held for sentence.

An investigation into the escape of the two men was ordered by Colonel J. H. McMullin, Commissioner of British Columbia Police at Victoria.

Warden Owen said a preliminary inquiry into the escape, which occurred between 4:30 and 7:00 p.m. last night, had shown it would be "practically impossible for the two men to have escaped in the car."

LIBERALS RETAIN NORTH RENFREW
R. M. Warren Elected in Ontario Riding Made Vacant by Death Of Dr. M. McKay

PEMBROKE, Ont., April 5 (P).—Election of R. M. Warren, Liberal, to the House of Commons, for North Renfrew, was conceded tonight by Conservative headquarters.

At the time of the concession there were thirty-nine out of fifty-eight polls heard from, giving Warren 4,389 votes and Dr. E. T. Wood, Conservative, 4,041.

Warren retained the seat for the Liberals, which was vacated by the death of Dr. Matthew McKay.

OFFENSIVE HAS MIXED RESULTS
Insurgents Advance in North But Meet Reverses on Southern Front

(By the Associated Press.)
Spanish insurgents countered their foe's victory drive in Southern Spain last night with triumphs in the North. They captured the Basque stronghold of Ochandiano and three villages, Olaseta, Verderin and Monchategu, in their offensive against Bilbao, Basque capital.

An advance of three miles brought them within six miles of Durango, key to the Bilbao defenses. Bilbao is sixteen miles from Durango.

ATTACKS REPULSED
Two sharp insurgent attacks on the Guadalupe front were repulsed by the Government, whose southern army pressed on in Cordoba Province to capture the village of La Granjuela.

This success opened a direct path for Government attack on the insurgents holding the valuable Penarroya coal mines.

A Government spokesman in Rome asserted Italy may withdraw from the European "hands off Spain" agreement on the basis of charges that France had violated it.

"FLAGRANT VIOLATION"
His statement followed charges by the authoritative Italian newspaper, Giornale d'Italia, that France has "flagrantly violated" the accord.

In London, officials indicated the charges would have to come from the Italian Government itself before the non-intervention committee could take them seriously.

Premier Pattullo Takes Portfolio With K.C. Attached
Hon. G. M. Sloan, K.C., Relinquishes All Offices, Prior to Taking Seat on Appeal Court Bench—Hon. T. D. Pattullo Has Four Posts Now

HON. T. D. Pattullo took over the portfolio of Attorney-General and the concurrent title of K.C. yesterday, at a brief formal ceremony attended by all members of the Cabinet at Government House. The Government leader thus became President of the Executive Council, Premier, Minister of Railways, Attorney-General and a King's Counsel, learned in the law.

Meanwhile, Hon. G. M. Sloan, K.C., relinquished all offices in the Ministry and the Legislature, by resignation.

The Premier, attended by all members of the ministry in town, called at Government House at 5:30 p.m., where the formal change in the Cabinet took place. Statute law conferred the title of K.C. on the Premier, under the automatic provisions of Section 2 of the King's Counsel Act, which reads:

AUTOMATIC
"Upon the appointment of any person to the office of the Attorney-General of the Province, a commission shall forthwith be issued to him appointing him one of His Majesty's counsel learned in the law."

The Premier became, it is believed, the only K.C. in Canada at present who is neither a barrister nor a solicitor. Precedent was said to exist from the days of non-party government in the province, prior to 1903, when a Mr. Wilson, a layman, was made both a lawyer and a K.C. after appointment to the portfolio of attorney-general.

The Premier, through his added role of Attorney-General, was plunged at once into the duties of the office, being faced with the wholesale burning of Government and Doukhobor schools in the Interior and with the intricacies of the Hedley Amalgamated interim report submitted by G. L. Fraser, provincial commissioner inquiring into that case. The interim report, now under study, was not immediately released, though the Province is pledged to make the finding public eventually.

Cut in Estimates of Police Organization Made by Commission

Slash $2,350 From Annual Budget Presented to Council—Mayor Andrew McGavin Negotiates Saving of $950 in Prisoners' Transfer

POLICE estimates were cut $2,350, from $105,916.30 to $103,566.30, at a police commission meeting yesterday afternoon and presented to the City Council by Mayor Andrew McGavin at night. Estimates for 1936 totaled $105,819.82, with actual expenditure of $103,791.31. Salaries of $84,591.30 were not passed by the commissioners, pending any action of the City Council in regard to restoration of pay cuts of 1930 and 1931.

William Ostler was promoted to a third class constable with an increase of $22 per month, Claude L. Harrison, city prosecutor, secured an increase of $25 per month, and Detective Inspector J. A. McLellan an increase of $15 per month at the commission meeting. Detective Henry Jarvis and Constables Stanley Holmes and George Clayards appeared on behalf of the Police Mutual Benefit Association to ask for a restoration of pay reductions made in 1930 and 1931. They were informed the matter would be taken under advisement.

CUTS IN ESTIMATES

Reductions in estimates of $103,566.30 made by the commission included motor patrol upkeep, $500; motorcycle upkeep, $250; transfer of prisoners, $950; furniture, $150; telephones, $200; building repairs, $200; traffic signal, $75, and traffic signal maintenance, $25, a total reduction of $2,350. Estimates included $1,400 for the purchase of two new automobiles.

Mayor Andrew McGavin reported that he had negotiated with the Provincial Government in regard to the transfer of prisoners from the city to the Mainland, and the commission would save $950 this year through the Government paying charges hitherto borne by the city.

Purchase of a chief and inspector's uniform, six for sergeants, one for the park constable, nine for drivers and motorcycle patrolmen and nineteen uniforms for policemen from Robert Rankin for $1,082.25 was passed.

USE OF JAIL

Mayor McGavin was asked to take up with the Provincial Minister of Finance the matter of the provincial police paying for use of the city jail when their prisoners were kept there. Judge H. H. Shanley was requested to conduct a survey of the jail heating plant in order to determine whether a saving in the cost of fuel would be possible. At the request of Magistrate Henry C. Hall, it was decided to purchase part of ex-Magistrate George Jay's law library at $5 per volume.

When Mayor McGavin presented estimates to the City Council, Alderman Archie Willis reminded him the School Board budget had been sent back three times to be reduced. He wanted to know why the Police Commission could not slash estimates to $100,000.

Mayor McGavin retorted the only way to accomplish that would be to slash salaries or reduce the force. When Alderman Willis moved that a motion to pass police estimates to the estimates committee be rescinded, there was no seconder. The city solicitor explained the council could appeal to the Lieutenant-Governor in council if they thought police estimates too high.

REFORM QUESTION IS REVIVED BY RULINGS

Similarly, he favored a national convention, but believed it should be difficult to get the consent of the provinces, which must be consulted.

Mr. Lapointe suggested further conferences with the provinces were necessary, in the light of the Privy Council decisions.

In leading off the long-awaited constitutional debate, Mr. Cahan said the court recently had annulled the terms of the British North America Act—"certainly they dealt with the actual text in a casual and conversational way that cannot fail to weaken if not nullify public confidence in the reliability of Privy Council decisions."

The Insurance Act decision, Mr. Cahan said, threw serious doubt on the constitutionality of the Federal old-age pension scheme, unemployment relief grants and appropriations for provincial undertakings. He suggested the Government take immediate steps to obtain a court decision upon these points.

INVOLVES AUTONOMY

Mr. Cahan, however, was most critical of the Privy Council on the wide front of smashing Canada's autonomy. He said the judgments "flooded the declarations" of the 1926 Imperial Conference, which outlined the autonomous set-up of the Empire.

The Privy Council, he said, went farther and "has the temerity not only to frame a new and novel con-

She Was Afraid To Shake Hands

Rheumatism in Joints Caused Her Intense Pain

Read this letter from a woman describing the manner in which she was affected by rheumatism. "For several years," she writes, "I suffered with rheumatism of the joints, especially in my hands, and this caused me intense pain. I was even afraid to shake hands with anyone, for it made me suffer terribly. I began taking Kruschen's regularly, and after a little while my pains disappeared completely. I am naturally delighted with Kruschen's."

The pains and stiffness of rheumatism are frequently caused by deposits of uric acid in the muscles and joints. The numerous salts in Kruschen assist in stimulating your liver and kidneys to healthy regular action, and so help them to get rid of this excess uric acid. (Adv.)

stitution for the Empire, which they assert is dominated by an Imperial executive that is now, as hitherto, unknown to English law, but they also presume by their decision to invest that Imperial executive with paramount authority to impose upon this Dominion obligations of a more far-reaching extent and gravity than the Parliament of the United Kingdom can now impose, except on the formal request and consent of Canada.

"I sincerely trust," Mr. Cahan said, "that effective measures will be taken to frustrate the futile efforts of this committee of His Majesty's Privy Council of the United Kingdom to revive and reassert reactionary policies over which its members have neither legal or constitutional control."

SLID DOWN ROPE

Pawcett, who was held on charges of wounding, being in possession of a revolver and retaining a stolen automobile and Campbell, awaiting sentence on a conviction for robbery with violence, escaped from the corridor on which their cell was located. They then unlocked a padlocked wooden door and gained entrance to the execution room, where they sawed an iron bar and slid twenty feet to the ground on a rope made of torn blankets.

It is believed the men were supplied with keys to escape through the locked corridor door and into the execution chamber.

City Deficit Cut Through Economy Tax Collections

EXCEPTIONAL collections of arrears in taxes, together with departmental economies, resulted in the city winding up its fiscal year ending December 31, 1936, with a net deficit of $89,720, the city comptroller and treasurer reported yesterday.

Items contributing to a gross deficit of $138,000, which was reduced through economies and collection of 78 1-3 per cent of current taxes were an anticipated loan of $100,000 from the Provincial Government which failed to materialize, and $38,000 advanced by the city to meet interest and principal on Panama Pacific Grain Elevator bonds.

from Oakalla. Five years ago he escaped with William Bagley. Later they kidnapped Game Warden W. H. Cameron in the latter's car, and held him captive for hours. Pawcett was captured in Vancouver later, but Bagley escaped to the United States, where he was subsequently arrested and sentenced to San Quentin prison. He was hanged two years ago for his part in an attempted jail break, in which a prison guard was fatally injured.

Pawcett is described as of Scottish-Canadian birth, twenty-eight years of age, 6 ft. 1 1/2 in. in height, with long face, black hair, Roman nose (broken), weight 166 lbs., slouchy figure, sallow complexion, hazel-brown eyes with spots on the irises, and visible scars on the left thumb. He has the rolling walk of a sailor, and once held marine papers.

Vernon Campbell, who was arrested in Victoria recently at the request of the Vancouver city police, is described as of Hawaiian extraction, aged twenty-two, height 5 ft. 7 1/2 in., weight 165 lbs., stocky built, with snub nose, black hair, slouchy figure, brown eyes and a heavy chin.

BOY SAW CRASH

The report of a plane crash near Alpine first came from an eleven-year-old boy, who told his mother he saw a plane "crash into the trees" about 3:30 p.m. on Saturday. The mother, Mrs. Henry A. McDaniel, wife of the forest ranger at Alpine, said she discounted the boy's story at the time.

The boy, she said, believed the

Adjudicator Gives Valuable Advice at B.C. Drama Festival

His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. Hamber Attend First-Night Programme at Shrine Auditorium—Keinert Wolff Judges Plays

THE highly constructive and analytical appraisal by the adjudicator, Keinert Wolff, of the plays given at the opening of the sixth annual British Columbia drama festival at the Shrine Auditorium last evening augurs well for the interest of the week's programme. The point of view of direction and acting. His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. Hamber were present.

Council to Press For Reduction in Ferry Fares Here

AFTER the City Council last night considered a letter from the Puget Sound Navigation Company stating that summer ferry schedules would not be in effect until June 18, Mayor Andrew McGavin and the business and trade development committees were requested to wage an active campaign to have ferry fares to and from the port reduced.

Accompanied by A. M. D. Fairbairn, they arrived before the rise of the curtain, and remained throughout the evening, being welcomed and ushered to their seats by Mrs. G. M. Weir and General Sir Charles Delme-Radcliffe. Hon. K. C. MacDonald, Minister of Agriculture; Mrs. MacDonald and Miss MacDonald were also present.

FESTIVAL AIM
Three one-act plays were presented. A fourth play, "The Hound of the Baskinville," which was to have been given by the Quantock-Rich Players, had to be canceled owing to the illness of one of the cast, and the period reserved for this was filled with a short talk by Harold G. Hinton, who read some material prepared by the president, Major L. Bullock-Webster, on the history and aims of the British Columbia Drama Festival Association which was formed in September, 1931, for the promotion of an annual festival and the development of interest in and knowledge of the drama.

The plays presented last evening were as follows:

Progressive Arts Club, "A Voice From the Living" (drama). Directed by Miss Ethel Bale. Players: F. Goodman, E. Matheson, Jennie Boyd, W. Hutchinson, R. Stoper, A. Heathcote and C. Madden.

The Cowichan Players, "Brothers in Arms" (comedy), by Merrill Denison. Directed by Miss M. Bigwood. Players: L. H. Margate, Gordon Appleby and Tim Appleby.

The Cowichan Players, "Thy Name Is Woman" (a satirical impossibility), by John Bourne. Directed by Miss M. Bigwood. Players: Mollie Bigwood, Jean Andrews, R. E. Roome, Nancy Hayward, Gordon Appleby, Tim Appleby and Muriel Jarvis.

PLAYS ADJUDICATED
The first of these, a peace propaganda play, had, the adjudicator said, the most powerful message of any of the plays presented during the evening. But the message was not put across as it should have been because the players did not bring out the salient idea of "It must not happen again." In one of the "units of action" the objective was "We want war"; in another of the units the objective was just the opposite. But owing to lack of variety in tempo and mood the two arguments failed in conviction as they failed in contrast. The stage business and entrances lacked variety and differentiation.

The second play, although better cast, also lacked variety of tempo. The characters were too unrelated to each other, did not sufficiently react to each other. In a play predominantly "talky" all possible avenues for movement should be sought out and used, although with discretion. An audience grew tired of watching faces in one position too long. Less of the stage should have been used. The most realistic characterization in all three plays during the evening was that of Gordon Appleby in the part of the backwoodsman.

In the last play, Nancy Hayward was commended for her excellent entrance, and the queen's entrance was criticized as being unimpressive. Usually, when two characters talked on a stage, one was trying to persuade the other to accept an idea. The actors in this play failed in power of persuasiveness.

Mr. Wolff recommended the reading of "Theatre Workshop," a new quarterly magazine, and a technical book by Denis Slavy for those in search of help for the solution of drama production problems.

Tonight's programme includes four plays: Obpca Club's "There Is No Return"; The Priory Players' "Influence"; Punch and Judy Theatre's "Crucifix Lane"; and Shamrock Players' "Between the Soup and the Savoury."

SHORTER TERM FOR AGED MAN

W. J. Burnes Given One Year—McKechnie and Bassett Each Get Three Years

The Spring Criminal Assizes were concluded yesterday morning with the passing of sentences by Mr. Justice D. A. McDonald on those convicted during the progress of the court. Of the three convicted of gross indecency, the sentences were given as three years for Ronald Bassett; three years for Alan McKechnie; and one year for William J. Burnes.

The difference in the sentences was explained by His Lordship, who said that he had been very much disturbed with respect to the case of Burnes in view of the age of the convicted man, which was given as seventy-four years during the trial. For that reason, he shortened the term of imprisonment, which would be spent in consequence in the jail at Oakalla. In the other cases, the terms would be spent in the penitentiary.

PERJURY CASE
The only other conviction was that of Meha Singh, on a charge of perjury in proceedings which had arisen out of an assault case in which East Indians were concerned. He was given six months in jail.

Gordon Cameron, counsel for the convicted man, made a plea for leniency. He said that Meha Singh was a good type of East Indian citizen. He had a number of residents of the city who were prepared to testify to his character. These for the most part were white residents. He pointed out also that the family of Meha Singh was being taken care of by the Friendly Help, creating a charge upon the public while the father was serving time. His Lordship declined to base character evidence, intimating that he would take into account the representations made in passing sentence.

ANNUAL CLEAN-UP ENDORSED

Strict Observance Will Minimize Risk, Says Chief Munroe

FIRE CHIEF ALEX. MUNROE

The following statement by Fire Chief Alex Munroe, gives his full endorsement of the thirteenth annual Clean-Up, Repair and Paint-Up Campaign:

"From a very insignificant start in one of the small towns on this continent just a few years ago, Clean-Up Week has now attained international observance—adequate proof of its own worth-while accomplishment. If given proper conscientious consideration by every citizen, then strict observance, it will prove even yet more effective in minimizing loss from fire, and at the same time, tend to raise our health standards. Accumulation of rubbish, boxes, old papers, furniture and general disorder are the most potent breeders of fire. Not only is an unnecessary hazard maintained through such conditions, but valuable room is taken up which might be utilized to good advantage, and which would allow greater breathing space to make the premises healthier, more inviting and attractive."

REMOVE COMBUSTIBLES

"Every citizen is urged to remove from attics, cellars, sheds, garages and other places, all combustible materials of no value, thus aiding in beautifying the city, as well as setting up safeguards against fire and unsanitary conditions. The Clean-Up campaign in this city is carried out to place Victoria on the map as a clean city. In every home there are many things thrown aside for future disposal. These things are of no value. They are in the way. In some cases they are dangerous because they add to the chances of fire and make it harder to extinguish a fire. If it is once removed, it is gone. It is easier to keep out bugs, rats and mice. Don't clutter up your homes with rubbish. It is no good and is always in your way. Get rid of it. Make your house cleaner, safer, more attractive and comfortable to live in."

"To facilitate and make more effective this week's campaign the city garbage officials have made some very helpful arrangements, which will no doubt be published in the press. Take advantage of these and show your appreciation of their co-operation. Where your rubbish or litter is of such a nature as can be burned be sure and observe the following precautions:

1. Secure a rubbish-burning permit from your nearest fire station.
2. Select a day as free from wind as possible.
3. Keep your blaze small and well away from buildings, fences, or other combustible material.
4. Follow the conditions on your permit.

CITY MOVEMENT

"This is a city movement—a movement to make Victoria cleaner, safer and more attractive. The tourist season is just commencing. Let 'clean' be one of the adjectives used by them in describing their pleasant visit with us. Every resident of Victoria who has 'Home Interest' at heart as well as Victoria's welfare is cleaning and painting up. Look at your cellar today, your attic, your yard, gather the rubbish and dirt together and get it ready for removal by the city garbage or by burning, and remember—While Your Individual Efforts Make Victoria Cleaner and Safer, You Are the One Who Benefits Most."

CHIEF JUSTICE SWORN IN HERE

Hon. Archer Martin Takes Oath of Office Before Mr. Justice McPhillips

The Hon. Archer Martin, the newly-appointed Chief Justice of British Columbia, has returned home to this city after the sitting of the Court of Appeal in Vancouver. Occasion was taken at 2:30 o'clock, yesterday afternoon, for His Lordship to take the required oath of office. This was duly carried out before Mr. Justice McPhillips, his brother judge on the Court of Appeal bench, and the next in point of seniority to the new Chief Justice on that tribunal. The first sitting of the Court of Appeal, as now constituted, will open on Tuesday, April 13, in the Court House here.

The new Chief Justice was delayed in Vancouver after the close of the sitting of the Court of Appeal, in order to allow of his taking some Admiralty Court work that awaited him, over which court he will continue to preside.

He was, however, in his office in the Court House here early yesterday morning, and during the day was the recipient of congratulations from many old-time friends.

The new Chief Justice has the additional distinction of having served for the longest time on the bench among the Superior Court judges of the Dominion of Canada. For several years past he has had this unique distinction of being thus the father of the Bench of Canada.

Mr. Lapointe promised to look into the matter. His information was Leopold had been employed because of his knowledge of languages. He could not become a member of the force without swearing allegiance to the King. According to his information Leopold was still a member of the force in Ottawa and a good man.

"My friend (Mr. Coldwell) says he incited somebody to join the Communists," said Mr. Lapointe. "I agree this would be going too far and I will take the trouble to inquire."

Mr. Woodsworth said he himself had once been investigated by Leopold.

"In the course of trying to organize the C.C.F. as a political labor party I have been followed by the agents of the Government," he said. "They have sat in our meetings and asked me leading questions, trying to trap me into unguarded statements."

The discussion arose on Justice Department estimates when items totaling $3,045,906 were approved.

INCREASED HARBOR DUES

The imposition of the increased harbor dues proposed by Federal order-in-council would work undoubted hardships to this port, and, at least so far as Victoria is concerned, the Dominion Government has probably failed to envisage their implications. It will defeat its own ends if it drives away business from the piers it constructed and the breakwater it built at great cost in order to give harbor facilities protection. It would be a short-sighted policy on the part of the Dominion to drive away shipping from any well established port and we are inclined to think that someone has blundered and has taken action without considering the circumstances.

Victoria is a way port, not a terminal, except for ferry service. The trans-ocean and many of the coastwise vessels call here on their way to Vancouver and Seattle. If the increased harbor dues are put into effect it would pay those vessels to omit the call at this port, and so much business would be lost. This would be a severe blow which would affect the community as a whole. Some of the tourist business would disappear; stores now purchased here by ships berthing at our docks would not be bought if those ships, because of excessive dues, pass up this port. It would mean a loss of business all round. It is axiomatic that a severe blow would be dealt to the lumber business, and indeed the probability is that only some of the implications of the increased harbor dues have been seen up to the present time.

Every possible protest is being made to the law, and the Federal Government, which should not have for its purpose a desire to injure the trade of any Canadian port, may well be expected to take a new viewpoint of the situation. The Harbor Master in connection with the new regulations says that ships that had previously paid $14 per annum to dock here would now be charged approximately $150 and that such a vessel as the Princess Kathleen will have to be paid for at the rate of $56 monthly while lying idle at the C.P.R. wharf between seasons. That is a heavy impost to be levied on tide tonnage and would justify the C.P.R. in reducing the size of its fleet on this coast.

THE "LIE-DETECTOR"

A fatidical device, a lie-detector, determined a murder case in the United States recently. The mechanically-operated contraption registered heightened blood pressure in the accused man when he was asked the crucial question and he protested his innocence. He was, therefore, condemned. In commenting on this crass method of justice, The London Times asks if the doctors will guarantee that blood pressure will never go up except when a lie is being told. It remarks, moreover, that much of community life "depends for its smoothness on little reticences, subtleties and evasions, which can hardly be exposed without turning the happy home, the cushioned club and countless other daily relationships into an uncomfortable concourse of jarring atoms."

If the lie-detector comes into common use as a means to determine the author of a capital crime there are many whose lives will depend on the accuracy of a piece of machinery. That is about as horrid a kind of sleight as is conceivable, more reprehensible even than a "stool pigeon." The lie-detector is no new thing. Dr. Augustus Waller, of London, first devised it. One who made himself a victim of it records how when a pin was pushed in his leg the spot of light recorded the reaction with a big kick. It gave almost as big a kick when pretence was made at pricking the leg. No doubt, too, this invention can give a reaction to persons, who hesitate, who stammer, or who blush. As a detector of criminality its uses are probably entirely negative, and, as The Times says, what "would be infinitely more valuable would be some impeccable apparatus which would tell a man when he is lying to himself," instead of detecting "those 'white lies' which by common consent all the social wheels and which would 'in the light of the tell-tale machine, turn into scarlet sins.'"

A COMPANY OF IMMORTALS

Fifty years ago The Pall Mall Gazette, then under the editorship of the late Mr. W. T. Stead, essayed to inscribe a roster of "immortals." It published a list of "the forty living Englishmen who would first receive 'immortality' if an academy of letters on the French model were to be established in this country." Time has revised the enterprising journal's estimate, but the first impression in scanning this list is that the much-maligned Victorian Age was rich in notable personalities. Whether 1937 could match 1887 in this respect would make an intriguing inquiry.

The first ten have an unquestioned place: W. E. Gladstone, Alfred Tennyson, Matthew Arnold, T. H. Huxley, Herbert Spencer, John Ruskin, J. A. Froude, Robert Browning, John Morley and John Tyndall. With the second ten we moderns begin to be critical. They are E. A. Freeman, Algernon Swinburne, Archdeacon Farrar, Max Muller, Sir John Lubbock, William Morris, Cardinal Newman, Walter Besant, Leslie Stephen, Benjamin Jowett. Some of these have faded out of the historic mind. The third of Mr. Stead's decemvirates includes John Bright, Frederic Harrison, William Black, Justin McCarthy, Lord Salisbury, Sir Theodore Martin, Henry Irving, George Meredith, Wilkie Collins and Canon Liddon. Several of these are still great names, but there is work here for the blue pencil, such as William Black, Wilkie Collins and Justin McCarthy. How many of our readers have heard of Sir Theodore Martin?

In the concluding ten of the forty appear the Duke of Argyll, R. D. Blackmore, W. E. H. Lecky, G. A. Sala, R. L. Stevenson, Sir F. Leighton, Andrew Lang, Bishop Stubbs, Cardinal Manning and J. R. Selye. The great name here is R. L.

Stevenson, who has long since been given a place among the literary immortals. Blackmore and Sala may be dropped. Many names clamor for insertion. Scientists like Sir William Crookes and Lord Kelvin; medical men like Lord Lister, and Lord Acton among the historians. Musicians would ask for Sir Arthur Sullivan, and artists for G. F. Watts and J. E. Millais. The great Cambridge triumvirate of theological scholars, Lightfoot, Westcott and Hart are not mentioned in the list, nor are two religious leaders whose names are as fresh as yesterday, C. H. Spurgeon and William Booth. Then, too, Thomas Hardy is one of England's great novelists.

To post up England's roll of honor for this, the third decade of the twentieth century, would be a thankless task. Is this an era of great Englishmen, or has that country fallen on mediocre days? The headlines of today belong to other lands; Mussolini, Hitler, Stalin, Roosevelt, Plus XI, Gandhi, Kagawa. Among Englishmen will Lloyd George's deeds stand the test of time? Will Bernard Shaw remain among the Olympians or Stanley Baldwin take a place beside Lord Salisbury? Will the imprint of T. E. Lawrence's meteoric career deepen with the decades? The world is awash with tumultuous cross-currents; it is a time of revaluation and fresh alignments. It would not be difficult to numerate the notables, but to transcribe the immortals in quite another business.

JOHN DRINKWATER

The late John Drinkwater might have been a great writer but he only was so in a spasmodic way. His earlier plays were of rare beauty, such as "X-O," a tragedy of the Trojan War, and "Cophetua." Seemingly he had not the literary stamina to struggle against the tide of public opinion then flowing in favor of light musical comedy and inane farces. Probably what will be remembered best of his works is Abraham Lincoln, which marked a new school of chronicle drama. His own attempts to duplicate the success of his play with such productions as "Oliver Cromwell," "Mary Stuart" and "Robert Burns" met with comparative failure. Since 1928 Drinkwater had written nothing of more than passing interest. He was a poet, a playwright and a critic who had the capacity to leave a deep record on an age which numbered Shaw, Galsworthy and Sir Nigel Playfair as his contemporaries. Where he failed was in sustained effort, which he seemed to think futile because of the fashions in public taste and the proclivities that led to ephemeral success among writers.

FOSSIL WOMAN

One of the anthropological discoveries made by the Mount Carmel Expedition is that of a fossilized woman of el-Tabun, with skull, jaws and a remarkably complete skeleton. It is estimated the woman when living had a stature of 4 feet 11 1/2 inches and she was wide across the hips, stocky and barrel-chested. The skull is low, moderately broad, with a cranial capacity of 1,260 cubic centimetres, which is only forty less than that of the average capacity of the modern woman. The face of the el-Tabun woman must have been quite different to those of moderns because there were heavy, ape-like bony shelves above the eye-sockets and protruding jaws. The lower jaw was chinsless, the symphysis sloping down and backwards. The bones were slender but the joints wide in relation to the length of the limbs. The el-Tabun woman was seemingly of kinship with the Skhul type of man. She was a maker of flint tools showing skill, practice and intelligence.

Ottawa complains that though a quarter of this year has elapsed it does not yet know what its municipal tax rate will be. The Journal of that city says it is always the last, or almost the last, community in Ontario "to know the worst." It appears as if Victoria will go one better than Ottawa's civic administration because this city is still in suspense about its tax rate.

Unveil Portrait Of Old Leader

NANAIMO, April 5.—Following a brief memorial service for Dr. O. G. Ingham, instructor of the first aiders here for many years, members of first aid classes of St. John's Ambulance Association unveiled a life-size portrait of the late doctor at their headquarters The Glee Club sang and W. Note and Comment

By Sandham Graves

An enterprising city editor once discovered that Victoria had more than 400 societies, associations, clubs and other organizations; each with a president, vice-president and full corps of elected officers. That there were 400 or more annual meetings, 400 or more presidential reports, and so on, through the full scale of organizational activity. Assume that each of these organizations had a valid reason for existence, worthwhile objectives and sincere memberships; and still there remained concrete evidence that Victoria as a community was dividing its efforts in more than 400 different ways. That, too, might have been profitable; but there still remained the further point as to how any plan requiring united effort of all agencies could be launched through its initial and formative stages, and pushed through into action as a result of community organization. The city editor in question, and long ago he removed to a larger field, found no answer to his self-imposed question. The question, however, remains, and it is worth pondering. What are Victoria's immediate objectives? How should they be advanced? Is there any single agency that can speak for all of the community, and beyond speaking, drive any action home to its conclusions? I have searched for reasonable answers, but have not found them. Thus, it is said, we need an airfield and a seadrome; we need a federal radio station; we need an auditorium; a courthouse; a museum; and so on, and still and still on. Why not pick one objective at one time, and go for it untidily? We do it now by weeks: airport week, radio week, etc. but some things may require years to arrange at that rate!

Speaking of weeks brings to mind the fact that Vancouver has cut tag days to three this year. Some very delicate points are involved in the collection of public subscriptions by tagging on the streets. Nearly always the cause is charitable, and beyond dispute. The money raised may be put to excellent uses, saving the town at other points. It is the means that remain questionable. The law does not permit a man or a woman to beg on the streets. It picks up professional pan-handlers and charges them with vagrancy. It deports them. Yet tagging is begging, with the certainty that those who resist will be labelled through the absence of a tag, as surely as if they had been placarded. Pedestrians have a chance for their money. They may be tagged, or escape it. Merchants have none. As surely as the sun dawns on a tag day, every merchant in the city, great or small, will be tagged, because they have a fixed and accessible place of abode. In a tourist city, the tag day has still other objections. It pan-handles the visitor for a cause in which he has not the slightest interest, like tolls on the Fraser River. It speaks penny, and a run-down charitable machine. It is bad advertising. Fixed charitable institutions should have other sources of incidental revenue; perhaps through a Community Chest. Tag days are headed for oblivion, because they annoy without cause. If we want to tag visitors, let us give men a rose, and women a corsage!

I have been waiting for days to give you an Irish fishing story, which is vouched for by one of our best citizens. Two army officers stationed at the Curragh had planned a fishing expedition. One glorious day they set out to the nearest port, and quay. Expensive rods, capacious reels, delicate and costly gear went with them, though they were not quite certain what type of fish could be caught at that part of the Irish coast. At the dock, however, a canny streak engulfed them and they elected to man a rowboat by themselves, without the usual assistance of a guide and oarsman. They could, they said, handle any fish that came along in those or any other parts. The boatmen grinned and touched their forelocks, as they watched the pair row out towards the breakwater. Well what happened after, that is not entirely clear. The boat drifted in to the dock again some hours later, with a great conger eel thrashing around under the thwart inside, and two chastened men hanging outside, up to their necks in the water. The eel had caught two military gentlemen from the Curragh!

Where Rats Eat Cats

When a cat hunts a rat, that is now news. But when rats hunt the cat, it is most certainly news, and that is the story that comes to us from Linan, a small village in Che-kiang, China. Linan prays for the Oriental counterpart of the Pied Piper, for the rodents have become so big, and so numerous, that they have intimidated the population, and no cat's life is safe. With a low animal cunning, the rats hunt in companies; using a decoy to lead the cat into some convenient alley-way. When pussy gives chase, the rest of the rats fall upon it, and literally tear the animal to pieces. They're clever, these Chinese rats.—B.G.

Getting All Set

During the middle of next month one of the classic golf events as far as this Province is concerned, will be staged at the Uplands Club, namely, the annual British Columbia amateur championship. Officials of the local club are busy working these days on the tournament, although it is well over a month away. Harold Brynjolfsson, young skipper of the Uplands, is more enthusiastic about putting this tournament over than he is about his own game. Already he has made arrangements for the newspaper boys, the local scribes, and those who will be here from the Mainland, a move which we will all appreciate. This meet will draw the best shotmakers from Vancouver, from the interior, and various island points. Ken Black, Canada's No. 1 golfer, will be here to defend his crown, but what a time he will have going back home with it again, with a large contingent of local club swingers rapidly getting their games into top shape, all determined to win the title. Harold Brynjolfsson won the crown at Uplands back in 1931 and he can do it again. According to club officials the course is being specially groomed for the scramble and will be in grand condition when the field faces the starter in the thirty-six-hole qualifying test on May 21. "Whatever you do, don't pick me to win this tournament for I am sure to be pushed aside early in the race if you do," stated Harold to me while discussing the meet last week. He's another of the many who figures my selections always go into reverse.—J.D.

Likes Our Hospitality

Percy Page, silver-haired mentor of the famous Edmonton Grads, women's basketball champions of the world, likes our Victorian hospitality. The genial coach of the Alberta hoopers spoke highly of the way the party was treated during their short stay in our city and expressed the thanks of the players, his wife and himself for what he termed "the best treatment we have ever had." Coming from a man like Mr. Page, those are kind words, and certainly speak well for the entertainment given to the Edmonton Grads by Gainers' Limited; sponsors of the local club. Many friends are made in sport circles and action such as that taken by our Victoria companies is just another step towards cementing the friendship made on the basketball court. Coach Page also had a word of praise for Tommy Macedo and Wally Spies, officials in charge of the game, and spoke well of the Victoria cagers. "A swell bunch of girls with a fine spirit of sportsmanship," that's how Mr. Page referred to Gainers' Superiors, local hoopers and Vancouver Island champions.—S.T.

Reason for Early Bird

Exactly at 8:03 o'clock Saturday morning the assistant city assessor and collector raced up the front steps of the City Hall fixing his tie as he made for his office. He prided himself on being only three minutes late after a flying start and no breakfast. Once inside the building, he was amazed to find not a soul in sight. Ernest, the janitor, arrived on the scene and soon informed the official that his timepiece was one hour fast. "Snub," the club

DEFENCE OF CANADA LEAGUE

Sir,—We see in your issue of today an enthusiastic letter in regard to the stand taken by Mr. Lapointe against Communism, Fascism and subversive revolutionary measures, and a suggestion to form a league against same.

We would like to point out that the Defence of Canada League formed in July, 1936, has very definitely stated through its policies, and by former letters to your papers, by itself, that the above league is active and functioning against such revolutionary and subversive measures as indicated by Mr. Lapointe. In conclusion we would like to

FIFTY YEARS AGO TODAY

(From The Daily Colonist of April 6, 1887)

Appointment Made.—B. W. Woolton, for many years connected with the law office of T. Davis, has been appointed stipendiary magistrate and justice of the peace for the Province. His place of residence for the present will be either Port Simpson or Metlakatla. He was sworn yesterday and will leave today for Nanaimo, where he will take passage on the steamer Bonaville for his new field of labor. The appointment, coming as it did, was not only a great surprise to the gentlemen, but to his numerous friends in this city, who all are of the same opinion, that a more satisfactory man could not have been made. All join in wishing the new judge a successful career. The people of the North are to be congratulated on having in their midst a gentleman who is highly esteemed by all who know him.

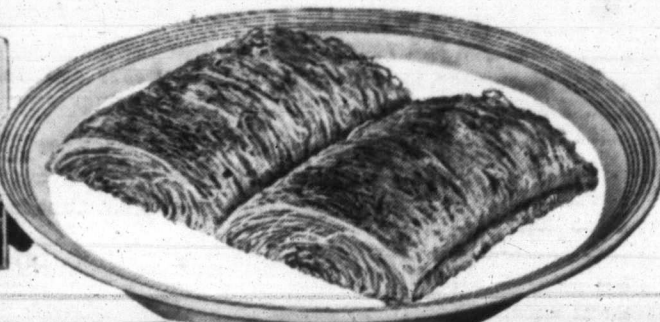

Australian Passengers.—D. R. Munro yesterday issued through tickets to four Australian passengers on the C.P.R., who arrived in the city by the San Francisco steamer—St. Andrew, which left their way to England to observe the Queen's Jubilee. They are the interliners of between fifty and sixty others who are on their way to Victoria from Auckland to purchase tickets over the C.P.R.

cess Charlotte was alongside the Belleville Street piers of Canadian Pacific Steamships, except two representatives of the United States Immigration Service, who were admitted to her stateroom, where they had to go for the purpose of approving her return back to the United States.

Naturally, newspaper and cameramen were a bit disappointed when they were informed by Mrs. Durbin that her daughter was too indisposed to see them, but the disappointment of the scribes must have been a mere nothing to that undoubtedly experienced by some hundred of Victoria's bright school girls who had somehow been informed of her coming and were on hand with sheets of paper ready for the anticipated autograph. They showed the disappointment when the boat pulled out at last without the pretty Deanna even appearing on the ship's deck for their benefit.

WAS VERY TIRED

Mrs. Durbin, speaking for her daughter, said Deanna was very tired and was resting. In addition to the round of excitement attending their visit to Winnipeg, where Deanna's grandmother resides, there had been trying broadcasts from the train coming West, rides on the engine of the C.P.R. train coming through the Rockies, while the thrills of traveling in the pilot-house of the "Princess" from Vancouver through the Gulf Islands was too much and she just had to rest; besides, she had a sore throat, which had to be watched closely.

Jack Sherrill, who manages the young prodigy, said that under no circumstances would he assume the responsibility of having his charge appear for the news and cameramen. He wasn't going to have to answer to studio executives and broadcast officials for any shortcomings on my part, such as taking her back to Hollywood in a shaky condition. She had had a busy time in Philadelphia, where she made a number of records with Leopold Stokowski, while the visit to Winnipeg, which had been a gesture of good will on the part of the studio to the young artist's birthplace, had been necessarily rushed and nerve-racking.

OPERATIC CAREER

Mr. Sherrill stated that Deanna, formerly Mary Ann Durbin, was ambitious to sing in opera at the Metropolitan some day. Until she reaches the age of seventeen, however, which will be in 1940, there will be no opportunity to achieve the ambition she has to sing Mimi in "La Boheme." She is studying hard for an operatic career in the meantime under qualified instructors, and with her music lessons, broadcasting and rehearsals for her air-programmes, movie-picture-making and learning the three R's, she is indeed a busy girl's home. Her one hobby is horseback riding and she can generally be found astride a studio mount in her spare moments.

On her arrival in Hollywood, she is to start a new picture, "100 Men and One Girl," while next week she will resume her broadcasts on the Eddie Cantor programme. She has still thirteen broadcasts to make on this Sunday evening programme by the middle of June, when the broadcasts will be discontinued until the Fall, when thirteen more Sunday night broadcasts will finish her contract with the "Mayor of Texaco Town."

BELLINGHAM, April 5 (AP)—Caught in a tide rip at the southern entrance to Seymour Narrows, nearly 200 miles from Bellingham, Friday night, the barge Commodore, formerly a fleet four-masted schooner plying between Puget Sound and Hawaii, and the steel tug Iroquois, collided. Neither vessel was badly damaged, but both returned to Bellingham for repairs, arriving yesterday.

The Commodore was being towed to Sand Point and Chinika, Alaska, with supplies for the Inniskillig Drilling Company. The tug and her charge left Seattle on April 1 with Capt. Richard Healy in command of the tug and Capt. W. D. Selmer as master of the barge.

MONTREAL, April 5 (AP)—A $75,000 cargo of milled British Columbia fir is still 340 miles from its destination, nine months after it left Vancouver. The lumber hauled the hull of the Lillhorn, a Great Lakes boat trapped by ice in the Lachine Canal as she attempted to beat the weathermen into Lake Ontario last Fall. The Lillhorn left Vancouver in August, steamed through the Panama Canal and hustled up the St. Lawrence River just too late to beat King Winter.

TRADE SHOWS
IMPROVEMENTBusiness Between Canada
And British West Indies
Considerably Better

MONTREAL, April 5. — "There has been a general improvement in trade throughout the British West Indies during recent months, and the tourist traffic from Canada and other countries during the Summer and Fall seasons is expected to show a considerable increase over that of last year," stated W. H. Thompson, freight traffic manager of the Canadian National Steamships, who has just returned from a business trip to the southern colonies.

"Larger quantities of general merchandise are being purchased in Canada as a result of better prices being obtained for sugar, cocoa and several other commodities, and generally speaking, business conditions have taken an upward swing, which is of interest to Canadians in view of the large potential market there to be developed. Ships moving from Canada southbound are carrying large quantities of flour, lumber, dry goods, canned products, cheese and a variety of other commodities, as well as motor cars; while northbound they bring up many tropical products such as sugar, molasses, bananas, citrus fruits, fresh vegetables, coffee, coconuts, cocoa and other general items in constant use in Canadian households," stated Mr. Thompson.

"In addition to this exchange of commodities, the islands have become very popular as a vacation area for Canadians, which in itself is an important factor in promoting a greater volume of trade between these countries of the north and south through personal contact.

VALUE OF TRADE

"The value of trade done by Canada in the fiscal year ended March, 1936, with the British West Indies amounted to $20,102,031, which is an indication of the valuable market lying not so very far from our own door to be further developed.

"Canada and the British West Indies are parties to preferential trade treaties giving definite advantages to the products of each in the markets of the other. The regular and efficient freight and passenger services of the Canadian National Steamships, operating from Halifax during the Winter, and from Montreal and Halifax during the Summer and Fall months, bear evidence of the increasing trade and reciprocal relationships existing between Canada and the colonies to the south," concluded Mr. Thompson.

Advices from the Canadian Pacific Ss. Empress of Canada to the local office of the company state that the big liner will reach William Head at 6 o'clock tomorrow morning. The Canada, in command of Capt. J. F. Patrick, is inbound from the Philippine Islands by way of China, Japan and Hawaii. She is bringing passengers, mails and freight for this port.

HERE ON FRIDAY

Coming in from Australia and ports in the South Sea, Capt. W. Martin, commander of the Canadian-Australasian Ss. Niagara, yesterday advised James Macfarlane, local agent of Canadian Pacific Steamships, that the liner would reach William Head at 6:30 o'clock on Friday morning. This should enable him to dock his ship shortly after 7 o'clock alongside Rithet Piers.

WHALES OVERHAUL

Two more vessels of the Consolidated Whaling Company's fleet are being overhauled for the season's work at the plant of the Victoria Machinery Depot. The tender Gray has been made ready and the first of the little killer-ships will probably get away shortly after the middle of this month.

LOADING LUMBER

Loading lumber for the United Kingdom, the British freighter Bed-jestan is at Ogden Point Piers. The ship arrived at the local assembly plant yesterday, and it is expected she will complete today. The Bed-jestan is commanded by Capt. G. W. Steer.

FROM ATLANTIC SIDE

On her way into Vancouver from Halifax and Saint John, the Vancouver-St. Lawrence Line freighter Pennington Court is expected by King Brothers here this morning. The Pennington Court has general cargo for discharge here.

SUGGESTS COMPETITION

Reported plan of the Nippon Yusen Kaisha for a service between Ensenada, Mexico, and the Hawaiian Islands is threatening the cargo movement long enjoyed by the Matson and Dollar Lines in the California-Hawaiian trade. Japanese executives of the California offices of the company deny any knowledge of the plan, but the rumor persists.

DISCHARGE BOOKS

Effective immediately, a fine of $100 per man will be assessed against any American ship proceeding to sea in an "offshore" voyage whose personnel, excepting only the master, is not in possession of either a continuous discharge book or a Government certificate. About a thousand certificates per day are now being issued. The Dollar Line Ss. President Coolidge, which sailed recently for the Orient, went out with all hands certificated.

QUADRUPLE SCREW

The motorship recently ordered by the Shaw, Savill & Albion Company from Swan, Hunter & Wigham Richardson, is to be one of the largest and most powerful motorships under the British flag and the only vessel with Duxford opposed piston two-cycle Diesels coupled to quadruple screws. She is to be 650 feet long by 64.5 feet beam and 48.5 feet deep, and will have a gross register of about 26,000 tons. She will carry between 500 and 600 cabin passengers and will have about 500,000 cubic feet of refrigerated space. She will operate between London and New Zealand, via Cape town, Durban and Australian ports.

Rocking the Cradle of Civilization

CANADIAN NICKEL SHIPPED TO IRAQ
SPEEDS CANADIAN PROSPERITY

IRAQ, drained by the Tigris and Euphrates whose banks saw civilization's birth, is today being rocked by industrial activity. Across those sun-baked valleys and sand-swept hills resound the snort of tractors and the clang of steel, as a 1200-mile pipeline worms its way from the oil fields to Mediterranean ports.

That giant tractor-trailer weighing 20 tons is 100 feet long with 30 tires on the ground. It was built to carry 40 tons of steel pipe over unimproved roads. With the added strength of Nickel-alloy steel in its axles and gears, it has covered 5000 miles through sand and mud in one year. And the tractors which dig and back-fill the 1200-mile trench, also rely on Nickel Steel in their vital parts to keep them operating.

Canada is known throughout the world for her Wheat and her Nickel. Her prosperity depends to a great extent on the increased sale of both. And so International Nickel's engineers are to be found in all parts of the globe, pointing out the advantages of Nickel and its alloys wherever peaceful industry extends its sway... wherever engineering difficulties are to be surmounted. The export of Canadian Nickel brings new money to Canada, gives employment to thousands, speeds Canadian prosperity. Every Canadian shares in the wealth from the Sudbury Nickel mines.

Kenneth J. Bishop, director of the destinies of Central Films, Ltd., yesterday cast seven Victorians in "Murder Goes North," eighth production filmed in this city under contract for Columbia Pictures, Inc. The role of Freddie, imbecile woodsman, will be taken by Reginald Hincks, well-known local character actor. James McGrath will play the part of a Cockney, adding comedy to the film. Vivian Combe, whose delineations have amused many a Victoria audience, will be seen as Maggie the slavey. Michael Heppel will play Constable MacKenzie, of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police; Harry S. Hay is the villain, while Edgar Edwards, whose work in "Women Against the World" was impressive, and Fred Spencer also have important parts.

Meanwhile, Sheila Bromley and Dorothy Bradshaw, who will take the main feminine roles in the picture, are en route north from Hollywood, and are expected at the Dominion Hotel this morning, with Rin-Tin-Tin, Jr., famous Alsatian, and his trainer, Lee Duncan.

Bob Allen, who is to take the lead in the production, should be here Wednesday morning aboard the S. Iroquois.

In company with Frank McDonald, director, and William "Scotty" Brown, assistant director, Mr. Bishop chose locations for the new picture yesterday afternoon. These are mainly on the old Rithet Farm.

Meanwhile, an officer of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police is coming here to give technical advice on uniforms and procedure, in so far as the force is concerned.

CHAPTER XVII

It was five minutes to eight, but Matt Stanley was already stalking about the city room, snapping orders, when Sandra came in. Matt called to her.

"Good morning, Mr. Stanley."

But he was no longer looking at her. "Got anything this girl can do, French?"

The city editor rubbed his blue chin. "She could chase some stiffs, maybe."

"No. I want to see if she can write."

"He went over and looked at the desk schedule, put a finger down. 'Who's covering that?'"

"Thompson," the city editor said, "and a photographer."

"Let her take that; put Thompson on something else." He turned back to Sandra. "Here's the angle: This poor fool from Park Avenue got himself plastered and ran down a poor devil in Central Park. His father's a prominent lawyer and there's a lot of money involved, trying to keep this young snort out of jail. Never mind what the testimony is. Give this young Brooke the works and—"

Matt Stanley was suddenly silent, his black eyes fixed curiously on Sandra's bloodless face. Then, "Are you sick or something?"

Sandra shook her head and managed to say, "No. No—I'm quite all right." Thinking, "This isn't reasonable. This couldn't really happen."

Matt said, "All right, hop to it."

He walked off with the corners of his mouth pulled down. There was no figuring these women. They were always pulling something like that. Confound it, there ought to be a law against women being caught in a newspaper office! But, seated in his office a few minutes later, he conceded that it would be an unfortunate law that kept this Sandra kid away from The Flash. She was probably a terrible reporter, but she was mighty easy to look at. And that wasn't all. There was something else, something he couldn't define. The way she looked at him, the way she held herself, the rich quality of her voice—Charm!

But she had it, and she had let herself get mixed up with that slouchy Wilson. He just couldn't understand it, and he was a fool for trying.

The photographer's name was Ray Goodman. He was small and quiet, and obviously knew his business. "Know anything about the case?" he asked as they climbed the steps to the courtroom.

"Something," Sandra replied. "Do you?"

He shook his head. "Photographers aren't supposed to know anything. But if there's anything you can't figure, ask one of the reporters at the press table. They're good eggs, most of 'em."

"Press table?" Sandra repeated. "You mean the reporters sit off by themselves?"

"Sure. Up front. You'll see it."

She saw it the moment she stood in the wide doorway, a long table set inside the railing, a woman and several men sitting around it, talk-

Confound it, there ought to be a law against women being caught in a newspaper office! But, seated in his office a few minutes later, he conceded that it would be an unfortunate law that kept this Sandra kid away from The Flash. "Sure. Up front. You'll see it."

She saw it the moment she stood in the wide doorway, a long table set inside the railing, a woman and several men sitting around it, talking now, waiting for court to convene. The room was crowded.

"All right," Goodman said, "let's go." Sandra watched him walking toward the front of the room, but she did not follow. She looked around, quickly, the last bench on her right was unoccupied. She sat down, gazed searchingly over the room, but could see no familiar head.

And then several persons came through the door, and moved down the aisle. She was half out of her seat, before she checked the impulse and sat down again. They were all there, Chet, Enid, the elder Eddy, and behind them Stephen and David. Enid and Stephen sat on the front bench. Chet took David's arm and they passed through the railing. Mr. Eddy followed.

Presently everyone rose. The judge came in, and as she sat down she understood that David was being tried by the court. There would be no jury. She had been prepared for such a trial as she had read about, days long. Next she saw David standing, facing the judge, and heard the mechanical question: "Guilty or not guilty?"

Someone was crowding past her. She pulled her knees to one side. The man slid by and sat down beside her. She glanced up and saw that it was Ronny—a curiously troubled Ronny. And then she heard David say distinctly: "Guilty."

Minimum Rates and Working Hours Changed in Northern Camps

Changes in the working hours and basic minimum wages of a section of the British Columbia logging industry in the Northern Interior have been announced by Adam Bell, chairman of the British Columbia Industrial Relations Board. Minimum wages go up by 5 cents an hour, and working time from eight to nine hours, permissively, daily.

The former basic rate was 35 cents an hour, for an eight-hour working day. Under the new arrangement, 40 cents an hour must be paid, but nine hours daily may be worked, under safeguards by the board.

The regulation applies to a twenty-mile belt along the Canadian National Railway line between Terrace and Red Pass Junction, in the Northern Interior.

The new arrangement was effected after conference with logging operators and involved voluntary concessions on their part. It was announced.

Byron Nelson Wins Augusta Golf Meet With Card of 283

Young Reading Professional Stages Great Rally on Last Nine to Beat Out Ralph Guldahl by Two Strokes—Ed Dudley Finishes Third

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 5 (AP).—Blazing over the home stretch with a spectacular 32, Byron Nelson, gangling Irishman from Reading, Pa., clamped a "full Nelson" on the field to win the fourth Augusta national golf tournament, featuring the annual return to competition of Bobby Jones.

Striking masterfully down the final nine holes in a par-cracking pace, the twenty-five-year-old professional finished with a seventy-two-hole total of 283 to conquer the all-star ranks by two blows.

Nelson overhauled Ralph Guldahl, of St. Louis, who stumbled in the stretch to take a 76 on the last lap and wind up with a 285, a stroke ahead of Ed Dudley, Philadelphia.

GREAT FINISH

After traversing the outgoing nine in 36, and apparently shooting himself out of the top prize of $1,500, Nelson uncoiled some golfing magic for his incoming 32 and a neat 70, two under par. Nelson led the first two days of play with rounds of 66 and 72, and dropped the lead on Saturday with a 75 to Guldahl's great 68.

For finishing second Guldahl received $800 and Dudley got $600 as third place. "Lighthorse" Harry Cooper, of Chicago, wound up with a 74 and fourth-place money of $500. Bobby Jones finished twenty-ninth, four steps ahead of a year ago. He had a fourth-round 77 and a total of 303.

Canadian open champion shot a final-round 76 to finish with 299, while Fred Haas, of Baton Rouge, La., Canadian amateur champion, withdrew.

Wrestling to Be Resumed Saturday At Tillicum Gym

WRESTLING will be resumed Saturday, at the Tillicum gymnasium, with leading heavyweights appearing on an all-star card being lined up by Promoter Fred Richardson, local impresario. The Victoria matchmaker is angling for the services of four of the best men now appearing on the Coast, for his initial show of the spring season.

Braddock Is Training For Fight With Louis

Heavyweight Champion Settles Down in Northern Wisconsin Woods for Title Defence Against Colored Boxer in Chicago on June 22

STONE LAKE, Wis., April 5 (AP).—In the outdoor freedom of the Northern Wisconsin woods, James J. Braddock, world's heavyweight champion, settled down today for five weeks of roughing it in preparation for the defence of his title against Joe Louis, the brown bomber, scheduled for Chicago on June 22.

The champion, with two sparring mates and trainer, took over the $50,000 private estate of Earl Ogren, one-time contender for the middleweight title, on the shores of Little Sisseton Lake, located in the woods eight miles from the nearest village, Stone Lake.

Despite three inches of snow, Braddock plans to start roadwork tomorrow, tramping over the wooded trails and chopping down trees to toughen his hands.

FINE GYMNASIUM
The champion will work out in one of the finest gymnasiums ever erected. It is a huge new building, constructed of logs and equipped with a steel ring, punching bags, private dressing rooms, shower bath and other equipment.

Braddock, with his sparring mates, Jack McCarthy, of Boston, and Charley Massera, of Pittsburgh, and Trainer Robb Lipp-mann, will live in a two-story log cabin, steam heated.

The champion wielded an axe on a maple tree and saved a log while photographers snapped pictures.

He went on a tour of inspection of the four log buildings comprising the camp, most of the day, and intends to plunge into his intensive training campaign tomorrow.

New York Slight Favorites to Win Opening Ice Game

First Match Will Be Played in Manhattan City This Evening—Patrick's Boys Are 6-5 Choice but Wings Are Picked to Retain Championship—Sell-Out Crowd of 16,000 Will Attend Tussle

By GEORGE MAGUIRE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, April 5 (AP).—Free-ranging Rangers tonight awaited the coming of Detroit's champion Red Wings, confident of extending to five games their Stanley Cup winning streak when the cup final opens tomorrow night.

Managers Lester Patrick said he believed his team had at least a 50-50 chance of clipping the Wings in the best-of-five games series for the world title. In betting circles, the New Yorkers were 6-5 choices to take the opener—but the Detroit dandies ruled 8-5 favorites to retain the championship.

A sellout crowd of more than 13,000 was already assured for the initial firing.

"Considering the remarkable comeback of my players since the playoffs started," Patrick said, "I think we have at least an even chance of winning the cup. The recent splendid all-round playing of every man on the club has to be considered. This tips the odds down a little more in our favor and I don't think we can be considered long-shots against the Wings."

PLAYERS CONFIDENT

The players themselves continued to display the same contagious confidence that broke out after they defeated Montreal Canadiens in the final game of the regular season.

"Watch us go," Neil Colville, young Edmonton pivot, chortled after that game. "We're in the playoffs and with this game under our belt we're going to make it seven straight for the cup."

At the time listeners thought the enthusiastic outburst might have been due to Neil's head getting in the way of a flying puck, but as things now shape up the prediction appears not impossible of fulfillment.

After a chalk talk on strategy this afternoon, Patrick dismissed his players with "early-to-bed" orders. The one thing that pleased Patrick most of all was that "the boys have maintained their mental balance right along. They haven't let success go to their heads."

Their hats in other words still fit.

WINGS ON WAY
DETROIT, April 5 (AP).—Detroit Red Wings, holding their third National Hockey League championship in four years, headed for New York in confident mood tonight to start the quest for their second Stanley Cup series victory.

They open their campaign to retain possession of the trophy tomorrow night at Madison Square Garden against New York Rangers. Manager Jack Adams said as they boarded their train:

"Barring bad accidents we ought to take the Rangers. We did it during the regular season, and we can do it now with the Stanley Cup at stake."

Normie Smith, Detroit's Vezina Trophy goal tender who missed some action in the Canadian series because of an injury, has not fully recovered, but will be in the nets against the Rangers.

EXPLANATION FOR SUNDAY'S RIPLEY CARTOON

How to Spend a Million Dollars—If you had a million dollars in cash it would be impossible to spend the entire amount in a year by spending exactly the same amount each day. Dividing a million dollars into 365 equal parts, means that you would have to spend $2,739.72 and 44/100ths of a cent each day, and at the end of the year the 365 fractions of a cent would mount up to $2.20—which is the amount you would have left over.

THE TUTTS ... By Crawford Young

THE WORLD AT ITS WORST

By CLYDE WILLIAMS

Jane Dixon Says:

THIS GIRL IS IN A DILEMMA BECAUSE THE MAN SHE IS ENGAGED TO STILL CALLS REGULARLY ON HIS OLD FLAME

The young woman in today's column knows the right answer to her problem, but she hopes I will help to excuse her for allowing her heart to run away with her head by giving her the wrong answer.

Perhaps she thinks I will say, "There, there, little woman, don't worry. It will all turn out right in the end. Just drift along with the tide and you'll land where you want to land."

Sorry, but this is not a "yes" column. Neither is it a Court of Condolence.

Its purpose is readjustment and reclamation.

Dear Miss Dixon: I have been going with a very nice young man for almost a year. It happened that when we met we both were in process of breaking off with the ones who had held our interest for quite a while. He had been going with a girl for several years, and I had been palling with a boy for almost as long.

From the beginning, we seemed to get along exceptionally well, to be drawn to one another. He saw the other girl once a week, sometimes less.

STILL VISITS THE OTHER GIRL

He took me to his home to meet his people, to dine with them. I found them most congenial. Then he told me he loved me.

Naturally, I was very happy about it all, as I had grown to love him, too. What I'm afraid of is that I am putting burned fingers back over the flame! You see, Miss Dixon, he still sees the other girl occasionally.

I know she cares for him terribly! He says there is nothing but dissension between them, argument and back-tracking.

His contention is, "She's bound soon to tell me to stay away." Still, I can't think that she makes the dates with him. He must go to see her of his own accord.

Does it take months for a person to love to say farewell to one who no longer holds any interest for him? I found one evening and a couple of remarks sufficient to end my affair then and there.

Certainly he must still care for the other girl. And if he does, why did he take me to his home? Why does he have my picture on his dresser, and give every indication that I am the one woman in his heart?

IS HE JUST BEING KIND?

Please don't tell me to ask him to stop seeing her, because I can't bring myself to do that. Do you think he feels sorry for having wasted so much of her time, and is giving her an opportunity to find someone else before he leaves her completely?

Or do you think as I do, that he has not yet made a decision about which of us he really loves?—Dim.

Answer: Don't worry. I have no intention of telling you to ask the young man to stop seeing the other girl. What is more, I ask you never to commit such a folly. If he has lost interest in her, I can think of no surer way to re-awaken that interest than to make such a request.

Perhaps the young man does think he is being kind. If so, he is a very poor judge of kindness. Mistakes are not remedied by deception, strife and wounding others. Obviously, he is not helping the other girl by feeding a dead hope. He is not strengthening your love for each other by causing you unhappiness and doubt.

TIME TO SPEAK PLAINLY

It may be he feels he is bound to her by some tie of honor you know nothing about. Even in this case, it is more honorable to face the truth or, in the parlance to the time, to "come clean."

I had better get around to the truth myself. The young man is weak spined. Either he lacks decision—unable to choose between you—or he lacks courage—breaking off with the girl who has become a menace to his happiness and to yours.

Since you have exchanged mutual vows of affection, you should have enough of womanly integrity to tell him how you feel about his dilly-dallying, and to show the strength he should have. Either he loves you or he doesn't. If he does, he will clean his slate. If he does not, you will save time and heartaches by knowing about it now.

ROLAND YOUNG IN FEATURE PICTURE

Starred in "The Man Who Could Work Miracles," Dominion
Comedy Offering

The brilliant Alexander Korda-H. G. Wells partnership, which was responsible for "Things to Come" has now turned its attention to comedy. The result can be seen at the Dominion Theatre, where "The Man Who Could Work Miracles" starts today. George McWhirter Pethering is a humble draper's assistant, who suddenly finds himself possessed of the power to work miracles. He starts in a small way by producing rabbits and commanding tables and chairs to float in space. But he becomes more ambitious. Failing foul of the local constable, he banishes the worthy to Hades. Roland Young is starred, with a strong supporting cast.

ATLAS Elisabeth Bergner
THEATRE wears a genuine Florentine gold chain attached to a sixteenth century miniature in "As You Like It." Twentieth Century-Fox release currently at the Atlas Theatre. The necklace, said to be very valuable, was acquired by the actress during an Italian tour.

CAPITOL Errol Flynn and Anita Louise, stars of the Cosmopolitan production "Green Light," showing for the last times today at the Capitol Theatre as a First National release, have found in the film play based on Lloyd C. Douglas' famous novel, roles that give them the most dramatic opportunities of their careers.

COLUMBIA Patricia Ellis, one of Hollywood's younger set now so enthusiastic about roller skating is either skimming over the roller rink or swimming in the rollers at the beach. Patricia plays the feminine lead in Universal's "Postal Inspector," currently at the Columbia Theatre.

PLAZA "A Tale of Two Cities," Charles Dickens' soul-stirring story of a group of people embroiled in the sinister workings of the French Revolution of 1789, is currently at the Plaza Theatre as the most spectacular and ambitious Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production since

AWAIT GRANTS TOWARDS WORK

Passage of Dominion Estimates to Include Federal Assistance to B.C.

While confirmation of actual Federal assistance to British Columbia with relief work programmes, this year, cannot be learned until the estimates pass Parliament at Ottawa, the understanding here that British Columbia would receive $700,000 towards roads and mining trails, remained unchanged yesterday, after the return of Hon. F. M. MacPherson.

Mr. MacPherson declined to discuss the result of his negotiations at Ottawa, because Federal action to implement the arrangement has not yet been taken. Meanwhile, it appeared probable that the Dominion will give the Province $500,000 towards a relief works programme on roads, and $200,000 towards mining trail extension, with the Province finding $500,000 and $100,000, respectively, to match these contributions.

The grants, when ratified, will be in addition to the Province's own programme, which includes $1,800,000 in the ordinary road and bridge estimates, and $3,000,000 now borrowed for special works, mostly on highways.

Mr. MacPherson left a few weeks ago for Ottawa, and returned yesterday, via New York and San Francisco.
